🔥 Always-on hearth
The central fire has not gone out since 871. Please do not be the one.

🛶 Free parking — for longships
Beach your vessel right outside. Up to 3 ships, no dragon heads facing the house.

📜 Flexible cancellation
Free cancellation before your saga begins. After that, the Norns decide.

Skál! Welcome to our family longhouse on the edge of the Hardangerfjord. Wake up to goats on the roof (literally — it's turf), spend your day fishing, feasting or planning a trip "west" with the lads, then fall asleep on our 30-metre communal sleeping bench under a blanket of genuine wolf fur.

Perfect for large groups, stag weekends, and anyone headed to Lindisfarne. We provide axes. You provide your own helmet (please note: no horns — that's a 19th-century opera thing and the neighbours will laugh).

The mead horn never runs dry and Ragnar's wife Lagertha is an absolute legend. Only complaint: the skald sang all 94 verses of the Völuspá. Twice.

I did not book this. The host came to MY place first. Took all the silver and the altar cloth. Please remove this listing.
Response from Ragnar: We had a great time too! Door's always open 🪓

Great base before heading west. Ragnar gave amazing local tips. Found a whole new continent afterwards. Nobody believes me.

Nice place. Burnt the cakes in the kitchen, which the host was surprisingly cool about. Negotiations over the border went fine. Would treaty again.
